

My College List

College Application fees add up and tend to be super expensive. Picking a college after you get your letters can be a difficult choice to make. To save a bit more money and see which college(s) you would actually love to attend, we have provided a template where you can fill in the information about all the colleges you have shown interest in and plan on applying to. Although it is great to have reach and dream schools, this is the time where you must think reasonably and logical. Be wise. Do not apply to reach schools only, and make sure to apply to schools that match you. Apply to safety schools that will ensure your acceptance.

TIPS: Check with your school or school counselor(s) about fee waivers!! If you are lucky, you may be able to apply to a certain amount of CSUs and UCs free of charge depending on what is accessible to you as a student.

IF you are in certain programs (EAOP, Upward Bound, PACT club, etc.) geared towards minorities and 1st Generation students, you should be able to receive these waivers.

IF you used a fee waiver to take the SAT, you are automatically granted fee waivers to apply to FOUR colleges that allow them for free.

School Name + Acceptance Rate	Interested Majors	PROS	CONS	Safety, Match, Reach
ex: University of California, Merced	ex: computer science, public relations, communications, etc.	ex: - great school - far enough from home - a lot of organizations to join	ex: - boba sucks - very rural - sucky public transportation	ex: MATCH
